WINTER 2010

Snow & Ice Management

SNOW FIGHTER NEWS

Old Man Winter doesn't want to give up his frigid hold just yet, but his hold will mostly be in the middle of the country.

According to the 2010 Farmers' Almanac, this winter will see more days of shivery conditions: a winter during which temperatures will average below normal for about three-quarters of the nation.

BSR is going to finish this season strong so our clients can see what sets us apart from our competitors. We are continually making changes in the way we approach and operate during each winter weather event no matter how big or small. We even look toward the future at all times. Check out this new plow from Western and call for special pricing only given to BSR Team Members.

WIDE-OUT

THE VERSATILE EXPANDABLE-WING SNOWPLOW

Extend your options with the WESTERN® WIDE-OUT™. It's a 9-foot scoop, an 8- to 10-foot straight blade and, with the leading wing angled forward, it delivers the ultimate in high-capacity windrowing. At the touch of a button, WIDE-OUT hydraulically transforms to perfectly match every condition, delivering time-saving performance at each jobsite. The one plow that does it all — the WESTERN WIDE-OUT.

HYDRAULIC WING EXTENSIONS

Independently position each wing to maximize plow blade width and carrying capacity.

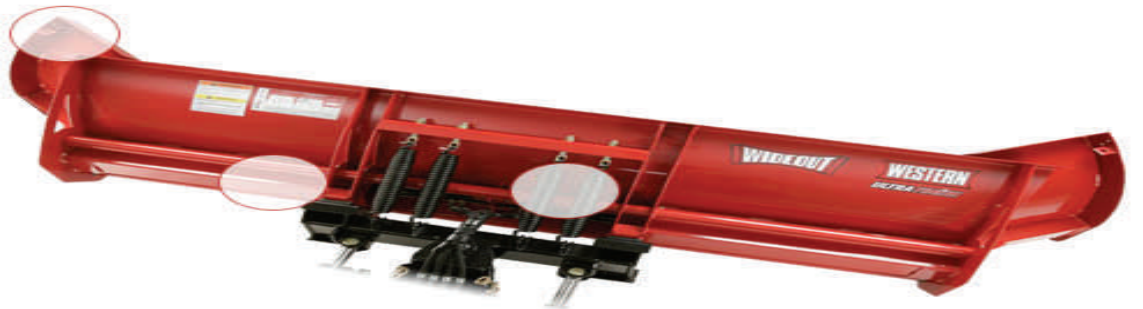

DUAL POWER BAR

Six vertical ribs and a dual power bar design provide exceptional strength and prevent blade twisting.

WING CUTTING EDGES

Durable polyurethane wing cutting edges reduce wear and protect the blade allowing it to operate in any position.

For unmatched windrowing productivity, position the leading wing in the scoop position to reduce spillover and efficiently utilize the full blade width.

The WIDE-OUT can fully angle in the scoop position to increase snow-carrying capacity while more effectively maneuvering around obstacles or turning corners.
